Holistic Lifestyle Questionnaire

Our lives today are very complex. To maintain health, all dimensions of our lives need attention. If we invest too much of our energies in one or two of these dimensions, the others will suffer, resulting in a decrease of our overall well-being. All dimensions relate to and affect each other. For example, what happens at work often affects what happens at home. The goal of a wellness lifestyle is to continually strive for both a balance between the dimensions as well as a high level of wellness in each dimension.

The overall composite is: 788 out of 1000

Interpretation of Scores
Section		Overall Composite
80 - 100	Excellent	800 - 1000	Excellent
60 - 79	Good	600 - 790	Good
Less than 60	Room for Improvement	Less than 600	Room for Improvement

As you review the results, note any sections in which your group exceeded the 80th percentile. These scores will identify the strengths of your group that may be used as a foundation for improving the organization's total well being. Those scores which are lower than 60% may need careful attention as you design and implement wellness programs.
